

CalVIP Proposal Summaries (Cohort 2)
July 2018

Cities (in alphabetical order)

City of Duarte

$498,448

The City of Duarte will provide trauma-informed care to over 600 underserved youth in the neighboring cities of Duarte and Monrovia as well as in adjacent unincorporated communities in eastern Los Angeles County. The target population consists of 76,314 people. Through a multi-agency task force disadvantaged youth will receive wraparound care utilizing a case management approach. Duarte will offer after school programming, group mentoring and mental health services as well as recreational, educational and social activities all while strengthening youth and police relationships. Over the course of the program those participating will experience fewer unexcused absences, attend college at higher rates, be less likely to commit misdemeanors or felonies, be less likely to abuse drugs, and exhibit improved parental relationships.

City of Gilroy

$500,000

The City of Gilroy and the Gilroy Police Department will have a South County Youth Task Force, made of city, county, community-based and youth and adult community leaders working together to carry out Project Transformation and Hope, Resiliency, Integrity, Voice & Engage (THRIVE). THRIVE encompasses five violence prevention strategies that will address underlying causes of violence in the Gilroy community, including improving and expanding community building and violence prevention efforts, increasing accessible safe places and afterschool programs for children, moving community and police relations toward a restorative justice model and increasing street outreach and intervention. THRIVE will achieve a connected and civically engaged community by creating accessible, safe spaces that address persistent inequities in identified areas of need. The target populations are youth, young-adults, re-entering adults and families in hot-spot neighborhoods.

City of Lompoc

$14,373

The City of Lompoc, Lompoc Police Department, the Community Action Commission of Santa Barbara County, Family Service Agency, North County Rape Crisis and UC Santa Barbara will collaborate to implement violence prevention programs for young women ages 14-19. Program partners will provide trauma-informed, culturally-proficient youth education groups, targeted mentoring and personal safety training, as well as parent education. The program will enhance resilience in female youth and their parents to decrease violence and improve juvenile justice outcomes. Those who are on active probation or had previous interaction with law enforcement will be prioritized. Youth education groups will be run by bilingual/bi-cultural female mentors who will provide trauma-informed and culturally proficient approaches to these young women. Parent Education groups will occur concurrently and be co-facilitated by the Family Service Agency staff. Note: Due to their place at the funding cut-off on the ranked list, the City of Lompoc is proposed to receive $14,373. If they choose to accept these funds, they will be able to implement only a small component of this project. This project description will be updated once that component has been determined.

City of Los Angeles$1,000,000

The Mayor's Office of Gang Reduction and Youth Development (GRYD) will continue to deliver gang intervention and prevention services in designated areas within the city. Seventy percent of the grant funds it receives will be passed through to community-based service providers. Services include family-centered case management services for youth ages 10-15 at the risk of joining a gang and young people ages 14-25 who are gang-affiliated, along with violence interruption activities through street intervention. GRYD's strategy is backed by an extensive data collection system and research and evaluation conducted by a group led by California State University, Los Angeles, which includes representatives from USC and UCLA. Evaluation has highlighted this strategy as effective in the reduction of: risk of joining a gang, participation in crime, and reduction of retaliatory violence. Note: This is the program description for the FY 17/18 funded program. The City of Los Angeles will be asked to provide a new or updated program description to reflect the purpose for the FY 18/19 funds should it apply for the non-competitive award provided by statute.

City of Oxnard$500,000

The City of Oxnard Recreation and Community Services Department has created Operation Peace Works (OPW). OPW is a trauma-informed violence intervention strategy focusing on 12 to 24-year-old at-risk youth and their families seeking transformation. OPW engages the collective resources of community partners to deliver coordinated services to facilitate restoration of hope through a process of healing, development, and transformation. OPW includes: outreach and referrals for the target population, case management with relevant wraparound services, community-building and community service opportunities, mentoring, job-readiness and skills-building, career exploration and paid youth employment. OPW will address community needs including traumatization, isolation, hopelessness and lack of opportunity by building on the successes and lessons learned from past work on gang violence through collaboration. In addition to community-building and emotional support, case managers will offer practical support by facilitating access to services across the partner network through referrals and by including representatives of local partners in learning circles to build understanding and trust.

City of Parlier$500,000

The City of Parlier will implement the Communities That Cure Violence (CTCV) project, which takes a data-driven comprehensive public health approach to collaboratively and holistically reduce rising violence and criminal activity. The project addresses all violence with a focus on domestic violence and rape. The CTCV is being modeled after the former project Communities That Care, in which the community plays a role beyond the traditional role played by police and courts. CalVIP funding will give Parlier the opportunity to implement evidence-based primary prevention strategies to change communities, families and youth. These strategies include focusing on safe dating, life skills curriculum, positive behavioral interventions and support, a sexual assault response team and Time in Destiny, which will provide 24-hour domestic violence and rape support/care.

City of Pasadena

$497,462

The Pasadena Public Health Department and its partners will implement the new “Project Safe Pasadena” which will focus on reducing violent crime among youth aged 11-24 in Northwest Pasadena and Altadena. The project is based on the “Cure Violence” public health model, and includes three components: 1) Interrupt the cycle of violence using a peer-based street outreach approach to mediate ongoing disputes and de-escalate tensions; 2) Change thinking and behavior among the highest-risk youth by providing intensive case management services to them and their families; and 3) Change community norms and improve community-police relations through a violence prevention messaging campaign, youth-focused enrichment events and community-based events that bring community and stakeholders (including police) together, and specialized training for police. Note: The City of Pasadena was partially funded in FY 17/18 with $235,283. The FY 18/19 award of $262,179 will fully fund the City of Pasadena at $497,462.

City of Salinas

$500,000

The City of Salinas Recreation and Community Services Department is collaborating with two community-based organizations, Partners for Peace and Rancho Cielo. These organizations are critical partners in working toward the prevention, intervention, enforcement and reentry goals of the Salinas Comprehensive Strategy for Community-Wide Violence Reduction. The projects include an expansion of the City’s Saturday Teen Nights to a fifth site under the Recreation and Parks Department, Parent Project Loving Solutions by Partners for Peace and a youth vocational training called the Tiny Home Project by Rancho Cielo Youth Campus. These projects focus on proven violence prevention and intervention strategies by enhancing protective factors like skill development, mentorship, parent support and teen recreation. The three service providers have built the principles of cultural competence and trauma-informed care into their staffing and services will have an adherence to these principles through in-service training and external workshops.

City of Santa Rosa

$500,000

The City of Santa Rosa Violence Prevention Partnership’s Guiding People Successfully (GPS) program is a multi-disciplinary effort of local government, law enforcement, faith community, schools and business and community-based organizations working together to provide trauma-informed, wraparound services to help address the root causes of violence in the community. GPS implements the Positive Youth Justice model which focuses on building life-skills and improving behavior and school attendance for at-risk youth ages 12-24 in Sonoma County. GPS provides positive alternatives for youth and families by offering collaborative and integrated services including: job readiness workshops, paid internships, in-home counseling, mediation and crisis intervention, support for substance abuse and pro-social activities. The GPS case management strategy incorporates an Individual Development Plan for participating youth, focused on setting goals and identifying targeted services to help ensure youth make positive choices to encourage a better future free of violence and recidivism.

City of Seaside

$500,000

The City of Seaside’s Youth Resource Center (SYRC) along with regional partners and community-based organizations will provide inclusive, innovative and inspirational programs dedicated to violence prevention and intervention services for at-risk youth and young adults and their families. These programs include domestic violence classes and supervised visitation services, innovative parent education classes, mentoring to adolescent girls, teaching restorative justice principles to assist youth with constructive problem-solving skills, and education to prepare youth for jobs of the future. The SYRC will assist with the development of a local employment program for youth 15 years or older. The SYRC is a collaboration of community-based organizations and agencies that provide prevention and intervention services for at-risk, on probation and gang-involved youth as well as their families. Youth will be referred to the SYRC by multiple sources, including police and probation officers, parents, social service departments and non-profit organizations.

Community-Based Organizations (in alphabetical order)

California Conference for Equality and Justice

$499,974

The California Conference for Equality and Justice (CCEJ) will provide restorative justice youth diversion services to youth, their families and community members in the cities of Long Beach, Compton and Inglewood. Services will include case management, a restorative case conferencing process, and resiliency skills education for youth and their parents/caregivers. As a result of the program, youth who have committed a crime will identify steps to repair the harm they have caused and build skills for empathy, accountability and self-advocacy. Parents/caregivers will increase their confidence to support their youth to remain out of the juvenile justice system. Victims of crime will be able to ask for and receive meaningful restitution. CCEJ's restorative justice process will strengthen connections between community members and help youth to avoid recidivism.

Community & Youth Outreach, Inc. (CYO)

$500,000

CYO and its partner, Positive Communications Partners (PCP) are committed to implementing a high-functioning community-based continuum of care model that will offer culturally competent, trauma-informed and Cognitive Behavioral Treatment-based supports to high-risk youth and young adults, 16 to 23 years old, impacted by the justice system. Funding will be used to expand PCP's Rites of Passage program, hire additional CYO and PCP staff to provide intensive case management and life coaching support, expand CYO's Healthy, Wealthy & Wise program to provide culturally relevant, trauma-informed CBT groups for participants, and offer participants with incentive stipends to remain engaged with services. The continuum of care model will strengthen each organization's capacity to impact youth violence, increase shared knowledge about resources available in communities, improve program and service coordination in local detention facilities and the community, enhance referral networks, and promote community-based innovations in violence prevention.

Garden Pathways

$500,000

Violence is on the rise in the cities of Arvin, Bakersfield and Lamont and it has resulted in the loss of a 3-year-old and 5-year-old boy. Two sons have been taken away from a family. Garden Pathways proposes to expand existing intervention and prevention services by: (1) increasing mentoring, case management and other support services to 80 youth and adults who are impacted by gangs and violence; (2) pilot an intervention program in two rival neighborhoods and create safe spaces to develop friendships; (3) provide education, vocational training, and employment opportunities to participants; and (4) implement a hospital-based intervention program with the local trauma center. Garden Pathways' program design aligns with evidence- and research-based standards and the nationally-recognized benchmarks of effective mentoring program operations.

Options Recovery Services

$437,122

Options Recovery Services reduces violence in low-income, high-crime areas of Oakland and Berkeley by providing recovery services for former inmates and others with histories of violence. Recovery services include transitional housing linked to addiction counseling, anger management, life skills and employability counseling, and peer counseling by former inmates. This CalVIP grant will embellish these services and add a formal data-based analysis, evaluation, and reporting system. Note: Due to their place at the funding cut-off on the ranked list, Options Recovery Services is proposed to receive $437,122 of the $478,590 requested.

Playa Vista Job Opportunities and Business Services (PVJOBS)

$500,000

PVJOBS' project ReVIVE (Reach Violence Intervention Via Employment) will – through personal assessment, legal counseling, trauma-informed care, employment readiness services and job placement – lower the incidence of recidivism and its correlated violence in the reentry population. The ReVIVE team members include members of the California State University, Dominguez Hills Sociology Department, the Criminal Justice Courage Campaign Legal Clinic, the PVJOBS Case Manager, Job Developer, Jobs Coordinators and Mentors.

The Reverence Project

$500,000

The Ambassadors Peace Initiative's purpose is to build on the years of grassroots organizing and continue the trust established for an atmosphere that can support the emergence of lasting peace. The proposed Ambassadors Peace Initiative will particularly focus on 100 16-30-year-olds, self-identified victims/survivors and LGBTQOOI identifiers of gang violence and their families of all ages, and will aim to support the integration of free, supportive, intensive trauma-informed direct services for the proposed target population which require long-term emergency crisis responses, education, mentoring, and alternative healing modalities (i.e. healing support group, art/music therapy, customized language access, leadership coaching, and intervention/prevention training and mentorship). The Reverence Project strives to improve the health of all groups.

South Bay Community Services

$500,000

South Bay Community Services will implement a Credible Messenger Mentoring Program (CCMP) for 160 at-risk and high-risk youth and young adults in National City (a high crime jurisdiction). For the Mentors, CMMP trains neighborhood leaders who were formerly incarcerated or involved in the justice system and who have turned their lives around. The Mentors will be trained in Positive Youth Development, cognitive behavioral therapy, restorative practices, and trauma-informed approaches, as well as the art of facilitation. CMMP provides youth with mentoring from believable sources, opportunities to form healthy relationships with pro-social peer groups in safe, supportive environments, and tools to replace negative attitudes and behaviors with productive practices and relationships.

Young Visionaries Youth Leadership Academy

$500,000

Young Visionaries Youth Leadership Academy (YVYLA) is a non-profit organization serving the youth of San Bernardino County. The target population of YVYLA is youth and young adults residing in the city of San Bernardino. Through a comprehensive four-part strategy our project is designed to reduce violent crime by: 1) increasing employment readiness and supporting job search for our target population, 2) increasing the number of our target population who receive mentors, case management, therapeutic mental health and addiction counseling services; 3) increasing high school graduation rates; and 4) increasing the number of individuals who receive prevention services and curricula in our community. Note: Young Visionaries Youth Leadership Academy was partially funded in FY 17/18 with $162,096. The FY 18/19 award of $337,904 will fully fund Young Visionaries Youth Leadership Academy at $500,000.
